Outdoor Club of Virginia Tech

and the Virginia Journeys 2011 Biennial Committee

Each biennial meeting of the membership of the Appalachian Trail Conservancy provides opportunities for participating ATC members and partners to influence the direction of policy, have a positive impact on the management of the Appalachian Trail, gain and provide valuable education through participation in workshops, engage with a variety of speakers, and have fun with other members and supporters on hikes and excursions.

The 38th meeting of the ATC was hosted in Emory, Virginia, by Emory & Henry College.

A conference planned and implemented by volunteers requires an extraordinary level of imagination, dedication, hard work, and good leadership.

The host clubs for Virginia Journeys 2011 and the steering committee have done an exceptional job of providing the members of ATC and others interested in the Trail with outstanding programs of hikes, workshops, excursions, and entertainment, based at a beautiful facility.

The assembled membership of the Appalachian Trail Conservancy wishes to express its appreciation in this modest way to each of the dedicated volunteers who worked so hard for more than two years to provide such a memorable conference.

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that the membership and Board of Directors of the Appalachian Trail Conservancy congratulate and thank the host clubs, the steering committee, and everyone who has been part of making Virginia Journeys 2011 a success and a memorable experience.
